Gross domestic product (GDP) is a monetary measure of the market value of all the final goods and services produced in a period of time, often annually or quarterly. Nominal GDP estimates are commonly used to determine the economic performance of a whole country or region, and to make international comparisons.. GDP (nominal) per capita does not, however, reflect differences in the cost of ...

Both supply and demand side changes are necessary to achieve a sustainable food system. However, the weight accorded to these depends on one's view of what the priority goals are for the food system and the extent to which production systems versus consumption patterns are open to change. Some stakeholders see the problem as one of "not enough food" and focus on the need to sustainably ...
